Administrative history / Biographical sketch

Note

University Communications and Marketing has overall responsibility for strategic communications at Simon Fraser University. At the time of writing (Feb 2022), its responsibilities included communications planning for internal and external audiences, management of media relations and stakeholder outreach, university website design and SFU visual brand guidelines and standards, and the creation of media productions (photographs, video, online, print) that support the university's vision and priorities. Interest in SFU grew rapidly after the university opened its doors in 1965. To provide information to the public, SFU first relied upon the Executive Assistant to the President. This position was held for the first two semesters by R. J. Watts, an instructor in the English Department, and, in an acting capacity during the summer of 1966, by E. N. Turner, a graduate student from the same department. In August 1966 the University hired Dennis Roberts, an experienced newsman and public relations director as its first full-time information officer. Roberts wrote news releases, prepared brochures, began a speakers' bureau to address off-campus groups, and started a campus tour program. He was assisted by a secretary and student tour guides. Because there were no vice-presidents or other senior officers in those years, the Information Officer also acted as a special assistant to President [Patrick McTaggart-Cowan] (mctaggart-cowan-patrick). Roberts wrote many of his speeches, and McTaggart-Cowan even deputized Roberts as speaker at several meetings.

With increased funding, the Information Office gradually expanded its scope. The Director hired an information assistant, and, in 1972, changed the department's name to University News Service (UNS) to better describe its functions and to avoid confusion with the term "information systems." In addition to press releases, UNS produced a series of publications – SFU Week, Comment, and Takkali. Roberts also took on responsibility for the SFU Pipe and Drum Band for eight years. After his retirement from SFU in 1982, the university made an arrangement with the Port Moody Pipe Band to perform as the SFU's band. In his spare time, Roberts produced SFU-oriented greeting cards and cartoons for faculty, students and staff.

Roberts' long-time assistant Ken Mennell succeeded him as Director from 1982-1998, followed by Kathryn Aberle (1998-2006), and Don MacLachlan (2006-2013). During this period, the office was renamed Media and Public Relations (MPR, 1998-2006), then Public Affairs and Media Relations (PAMR, 2006-2013). A substantial reorganization of the portfolio occurred in 2014 with the establishment of SFU Communications and Marketing. This brought into the portfolio responsibility for brand management, as well as Creative Studio, a unit with a long tradition of education media production at SFU. Prior to the merger, Creative Studio was a unit in the VP Academic's portfolio, mostly tasked with the creation of educational media, and was itself the successor of a number of earlier incarnations with similar functions: the Audio-Visual Centre (1967-1981), the Instructional Media Centre (IMC, 1981-2000), the Learning and Instructional Development Centre (LIDC, 2000-2011), and the Teaching and Learning Centre (TLC, 2011-2013). Other names for this unit included Media Services, Media Design, and Creative Services. Since the 2014 reorganization, Communications and Marketing has been headed by an External Director, first Sarah Temple (2014-2016), then Kristin Linklater (2016–).

For most of its history, University Communications and Marketing and its predecessors have reported to either the President (1966-1971 and 1976-1981) or to the senior executive (typically a Vice-President) responsible for external relations. For a visual presentation of the unit's administrative history, see Appendix A in the hardcopy and pdf versions of the F-61 finding aid.

Custodial history

The records were in the continuous custody and control of University Communications and Marketing and its predecessors prior to their transfer to Archives. The department has made numerous transfers to the Archives from the 1980s on.

Scope and content

Fonds consists of records made or received by University Communications and Marketing and its predecessors.

Activities and topics documented include the establishment, organization and operation of the unit; photography of SFU people, places and events for campus publications; provision of information to the public; organization of special events; liaison with other units in the University; and the production of press releases, brochures, and on-going publications.

Records types include correspondence, minutes, reports, proposals, and working papers; photographs, including negatives and contact sheets; university press releases and publications; and articles and other reference materials relating to SFU.

The fonds is arranged into seven series:

- * F-61-1 - Photographic materials (1971-1998)
 - * F-61-2 - Correspondence (1965-1989)
 - * F-61-3 - Public files (1965-1974)
 - * F-61-4 - Publications (1965-2011)
 - * F-61-5 - Press releases (1964-2003)
 - * F-61-6 - Administrative records (1971-1996)
 - * F-61-7 - Ceremonies, events and activities records (1972-1990)

Notes

Title notes

- Variations in title: Previous titles – * Media and Public Relations Office fonds* (1998-2016); * University Communications fonds* (2016-2022).
- Source of title proper: Title based on the name of the records creator.

Arrangement

The arrangement of the fonds into series is broadly based on the original order in which the records were created and maintained by the creating department. [Series 1]/(f-61-1) (Photographic material) was reorganized by the archivist in 2022 with the incorporation of digitized copies of the original contact sheets and import of legacy photo index data. Three sub-series ([1-1]/(f-61-1-1), [1-2]/(f-61-1-2), and [1-3]/(f-61-1-3)) were retired and replaced by a single new sub-series ([1-4]/(f-61-1-4)). See the description for for [F-61-1]/(f-61-1), Arrangement note.

Alternative form available

The Archives has begun digitizing materials from parts of the fonds: early SFU newsletters / bulletins (1966-1967, series 4) and photographic contact sheets (1971-1979, series 1). See those series descriptions for details on file formats. Digitization work on the contact sheets remains in progress (as of Feb 2022).

Restrictions on access

The records of University Communications and Marketing are university records subject to British Columbia's Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FIPPA). Access restrictions may apply to records containing personal information or confidential information (e.g. legal advice). Some series represent materials that were produced for public dissemination, and these are generally open, e.g. photographs (series 1), publications (series 4), and press releases (series 5-1). Other files throughout the fonds are marked "pending review" and must be reviewed for clearance by an archivist prior to release. See the file lists and consult the reference archivist for more information.

Conditions governing use

Most records in the fonds are subject to copyright, but copyright ownership is mixed.

Copyright in records authored by SFU employees belongs to SFU. The Archives provides access to these materials under a Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial license (CC BY-NC). Users are free to copy, share and adapt the materials as they wish provided they credit SFU as the creator, indicate any changes they have made, and use the works for a non-commercial purpose. All requests for commercial use should be made in writing to SFU Archives.

The fonds also includes some copyright-protected materials for which SFU does not own copyright (e.g. incoming records received that were authored by non-SFU third parties). For these materials, the Archives makes copies available for private study or research purposes under the fair dealing provisions of Canada's Copyright Act. Use for any other purpose may require the permission of the copyright owner. SFU Archives can assist researchers in attempting to identify copyright owners, but it is users' responsibility to contact owners and secure any permissions.

See individual series descriptions for more information about the application of copyright to specific sets of records.

Finding aids

The hardcopy and pdf versions of this finding aid include two appendices: Appendix A, Administrative History Data (visual chart); and Appendix B: How to Request Copies of Photographs. An index to the photographs of series 1 is available offline. The Archives is working to incorporate this data into the current finding aid descriptions; see series 1, note on Finding aids for more detail.

Related material

For other materials relating to the first head of the department, see the Dennis Roberts fonds (F-161); link below.

Creative Studio was brought into University Communications and Marketing in 2014 and its records now form part of this fonds. However, Creative Studio is the direct successor of the Learning and Instructional Development Centre (LIDC, 2001-2010) and its predecessors, the Instructional Media Centre (IMC, 1981-2001) and the Audio-Visual Centre (1967-1981) before that. For the records of these latter departments, see the Learning and Instructional Development Centre fonds (F-18); link below.

Accruals

Further accruals are expected. Digitization of contact sheets remains in progress – 1971-1979 has been completed, and the years 1980-2000 will be uploaded when ready. Additional transfers from the department have been accessioned but not yet processed. As of Feb 2022, this includes ca. 12 m. of unprocessed boxed records, including a run of "people files" (1965-2008), administrative records, photographic materials, and audio-visual products. The Archives received several transfers of born-digital materials in 2020-21 that have not yet been processed, including 4.6 GB of media releases and ca. 6 TB of photographs.

Other notes

- Publication status: published
- Level of detail: Full
- Status description: Revised
- Physical description: Photographs and digitized materials are in series 1. The figure for total photographs (33000) is based on an estimate of 20 images per contact sheet. The born-digital media is located in series 5-3, Web media releases. It comprises ca. 3500 press releases in pdf format. The total volume (10.6 GB) includes originals, preservation copies and access copies.

Series descriptions

Series F-61-1: Photographic material

Date: 1971 - 1998 (date of creation)

Scope and content:

Series consists of photographs made by staff photographers in the department. Initially the Information Office relied on the Instructional Media Centre for photographs for its publications, but in 1972 it began to take its own photos. Photography subjects focus on newsworthy people, places and events at Simon Fraser University, as well as portraits of alumni, faculty, staff and students. From 1972 to 2000, the department created and managed its photographs in analog format, as contact sheets and negatives (sub-series 4). Around 2000, the department switched digital photography (sub-series 5, not yet processed).

Physical description: Analog originals:

ca. 3300 photographs : contact sheets

ca. 66000 photographs : negatives

Digitized copies:

ca. 630 photographs : contact sheets (ca. 200 GB, pdf, tiff)

Language of the material:

English

Arrangement:

In the initial arrangement of the fonds in 1998, the Archives organized photographic material into separate sub-series for contact sheets (F-61-1-1) and negatives (F-61-1-2), reflecting the physical separation by which they were originally maintained (in separate sets of binders). Later, an accrual of a duplicate set of contact sheets and negatives was assigned to its own separate sub-series (F-61-1-3). In 2022, the Archives discontinued this arrangement, replacing these three sub-series with a single unit for the analog materials (F-61-1-4) in order to better incorporate descriptive data about the images from the legacy Photo Index database, which is organized by contact sheet number (see sub-series F-61-1-4, notes on Arrangement and Finding aids). The archivist created a separate sub-series (F-61-1-5) for digital photographs created from 2000 on; transfers have been received but not yet processed.

Restrictions on access:

The records are open with no access restrictions.

Conditions governing use:

Copyright in photographs made SFU employees belongs to SFU. The Archives provides access to these materials under a Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial license (CC BY-NC). Exceptions (third-party protected materials) are noted in file-level descriptions where applicable. For use of materials under a CC license, see the fonds description, note on Terms governing use.

Finding aids:

A photo index is available for the analog materials; see sub-series 4.

Related material:

For other large sets of university-related photographs, see series F-18-1 in the Learning and Instructional Development fonds and series F-17-1 in the Peak Publications Society fonds (links below).

Accruals:

Further accruals are expected. Two transfers of born-digital photographs (2000-2020) have been received but not yet processed; they will be arranged in sub-series 5.

Subseries F-61-1-4: Contact sheets and negatives

Date: 1972-1998 (date of creation)

Scope and content:

Sub-series consists of analog photographs taken by SFU photographers working in University News Service (UNS) and Media and Public Relations (MPR) from 1972 to 1999. In 2000, photographers switched over to digital photography, discontinuing the creation of contact sheets and negatives. Contact sheets were used to facilitate browsing and final selection of images. Photographers cut their film roll into a number of small strips that were exposed and developed as a set of thumbnail images on a single page. Contact sheets and negatives were stored in a separate series of binders, but were both organized by contact sheet number, with different numbering schemes in use at different times (see note on Arrangement below for more information on the numbering systems).

Descriptive data about the images were created by the photographers in the form of labels and annotations added to contact sheets. This data was later captured in a photo index database and appears in the Scope and content note for individual contact sheets at the file level (see the note on Finding aids below for more information on the Archives' legacy photo index).

Physical description: Analog originals:

ca. 66000 photographs : negatives

Digitized copies:

ca. 630 photographs : contact sheets (ca. 200 GB, pdf, tiff)

Language of the material:

English

Note [generalNote]:

Some of the original negatives and / or contact sheets may be missing (were not transferred to Archives). This is noted where applicable at the file level.

Access points:

- Records in electronic form (digitized) (documentary form)

Arrangement:

UNS / MPR organized the records by contact sheet number, with separate binders for contact sheets and negatives. The Archives' initial arrangement of this material in 1998 reflected this physical organization, with separate sub-series for contact sheets (F-61-1-1), negatives (F-61-1-2), and another for a duplicate set of sheets and negatives together (F-61-1-3).

With digitization of the contact sheets, the former sub-series were retired in 2022 and replaced by the current sub-series. This arrangement that brings together the contact sheets and negatives by contact sheet number, though physically they continue to be housed separately. The archivist added year-based sub-sub-series to facilitate browsing. Each year is treated as a sub-sub-series, a single contact sheet is treated as a file, and individual negatives (frames) as items (if / when they are digitized).

Three different numbering systems for the contact sheets were used by the creators at different times, but in each a departmental abbreviation (UNS or MPR) was prefixed to the sheet number by the Archives' indexing system (see note below on Finding aids).

System (i): YYNNN. The first two digits indicate the year in which the photograph was created, followed by a three-digit sequential number (e.g. UNS 75006 = 1975 contact sheet 6).

System (ii): YYSNN. The first two digits indicate year, the third represents the semester, followed by a two-digit sequential number (e.g. UN78317 = 1978 semester 3 contact sheet 17).

System (iii): YY-SS-NN. A set of six digits represents the year + semester + sequential number, with dash separators (e.g. MPR 98-01-42 = 1998 semester 1 contact sheet 42).

Unnumbered contact sheets were assigned codes by the archivist using the following convention:*
YYYY-Unnumbered-NN *(e.g. UNS 1977 Unnumbered 01).

Alternative form available:

The Archives is digitizing the contact sheets (1972-1979 completed as of Feb 2022). Contact sheets are sometimes annotated on the back, and the sheets have been digitized front and back as separate tiff files (preservation copy), along with a combined pdf (access copy). For access to the tiffs, consult the reference archivist. The Archives can provide high-quality scans from the original negatives. Contact the reference archivist and indicate the contact sheet and frame number of the image(s) requested.

See Appendix B for more information on requesting copies of photographs. As individual images are scanned, they may be uploaded directly to SFU AtoM as items linked to the parent contact sheet (file).

Restrictions on access:

Photographs are open with no access restrictions.

Conditions governing use:

SFU is the copyright owner of images created by SFU photographers, which covers the bulk of this sub-series, and the Archives makes the materials available under Creative Common license CC BY-NC. See the fonds description, note on Terms governing use for more information on the CC license.

In a very small number of cases (e.g. UNS 1976 Unnumbered 01), a non-SFU photographer created the images and SFU does not own copyright; where applicable, this is noted at the file level.

In a very small number of cases (e.g. UNS 1976 Unnumbered 01), a non-SFU photographer created the images and SFU does not own copyright; where applicable, this is noted at the file level.

Finding aids:

In 1984 the Archives worked with SFU's Computing Centre to create an automated photo index on the university's mainframe computing service. Archives staff input descriptive data found on the contact sheets into a centralized database, the scope of which encompassed the photos covered by this series, as well as photos created by the Instructional Media Centre (F-18-1) and The Peak (F-17-1). It is not clear who continued data entry after 1984 (Archives staff or unit photographers or both). Around 1990, the database was discontinued and the data exported to a standalone FileMaker database transferred to Archives. Photographers, however, also received similar FileMaker databases and continued indexing their own contact sheets. This data was also eventually transferred to Archives along with the sheets and negatives.

Around 2012, the Archives consolidated all this legacy descriptive data into its internal Archives Information System (AIS) database to facilitate searches for reference inquiries. The data, however, was only accessible in the Archives' reading room. In 2022 the Archives began a project to import this data directly into the AtOM descriptive record (along with digitized images of the contact sheets), a project that remains in progress at the time of writing (Feb 2022). Legacy index data has been mapped over to the Scope and content note at the file level for individual contact sheets. The descriptions should be used with caution, as the index did not always use consistent subject terms and spelling errors may occur.

Related material:

Large sets of contact sheets and negatives – maintained in a similar way, with similar numbering systems – were also created by the Instructional Media Centre / Learning and Instructional Development Centre (series F-18-1) and The Peak (series F-17-1); see links below.

Accruals:

No further accruals are expected. Digitization of contact sheets, however, remains in progress; images and descriptive data will be uploaded when ready. For born-digital photographs (the successor to this series), see F-61-1-5 (materials not yet processed).

Subseries F-61-1-5: Digital photographs

Date: 1997-2020 (date of creation)

Scope and content:

Sub-series consists of digital photographs taken by SFU photographers working in University Communications and Marketing and its predecessors from 2000 to 2020. This sub-series is the successor to F-61-1-4, the analog photographs (contact sheets and negatives) created by the department prior to the switch to digital photography.

The images in the sub-series were the work of SFU photographers Greg Ehlers and Dale Northey. The records have not yet been processed. Consult the reference archivist for information about access to this material.

Physical description: ca. 6TB of digital photographs

Subseries F-61-4-2: Takkali

Date: 1965 - 1974 (date of creation)

Scope and content:

Two early issues of Takkali were distributed in 1965 before the university opened and were described as a "report to convocation." In 1968, the Information Office used the same name, Takkali, for a new monthly bulletin to faculty and staff about Board of Governors and Senate activities. In addition to official announcements, Takkali contained news of scholarly and academic activities such as appointments, and promotions, awarding of tenure, resignations, publications, papers presented at conferences, and research grants received. "Takkali" was one of the early names for the Carrier Indians with whom explorer Simon Fraser wintered on Fraser Lake. The word was also translated as "Navigator." The final three issues of Takkali were not distributed independently, but appeared as inserts in The Peak in September, October and November of 1974.

Subseries F-61-4-3: Comment

Date: 1969 - 1981 (date of creation)

Scope and content:

The Information Office published Comment twice a semester as a feature magazine about members of the SFU community. It was mailed to the homes of all students, faculty, staff, alumni and members of the public who asked to be on the mailing list. Comment ceased publication in 1981.

Subseries F-61-4-4: SF Week, SFU News

Date: 1966 - 2011 (date of creation)

Scope and content:

SFU Newsletter and News Bulletin appeared for 38 issues from January 1966 to October 1966, when they were superseded by SFU Week as Issue No. 39. It functioned as a weekly calendar of events on campus. In February 1975 SFU Week adopted a new format combining the old weekly calendar of events and some features of the monthly Takkali. SFU Week also included feature articles about people and events.

SFU Week became Simon Fraser News in 1994. On September 21, 2000, Simon Fraser News became Simon Fraser University News.

Physical description: 47 cm of textual records

Note [generalNote]:

For some volumes of SFU News, the editors chose to use the same issue number for all convocation issues. E.g., in volume 43 (F-61-4-4-0-9), the convocation editions printed on June 7, 2012 and September 27, 2012 are both indexed as no. 9.

Restrictions on access:

Open

Accruals:

During the summer of 2006 Media and PR chose not print traditional hardcopies of SFU News. Through their website "http://www.sfu.ca/mediapr/sfu_news/archives_2006/" the public could download individual news articles divided into reporting categories. In September 2006 they resumed printing hardcopies of the newspaper. At this time Media and PR does not anticipate printing out hardcopies of the web-based news articles for the summer editions (vol. 36) as no pdf layouts were created. The Archives holdings therefore have a gap of SF News after April 6, 2006 (vol. 35, no. 7) through to September 7, 2006 (vol. 37, no. 1).

Series F-61-5: News releases and media reports

Date: 1964 - 2019 (date of creation)

Scope and content:

Series consists of paper and digital news releases created by Communications and Marketing and its predecessors, as well as compilations of press coverage about the university. From its inception, SFU regularly created news releases intended for public dissemination to highlight significant events at the university and publicize the work of faculty, staff and students. From 1965 to 2003, these were maintained in paper form. Around 2002, the university began to post the releases on its website, and the paper records were discontinued by 2003. Starting in 1970, the department also began systematically compiling media articles about SFU into annual or semesterly appearing Media Reports ("Simon Fraser University in the news").

Record types include press releases, media advisories, and copies of newspapers articles. The web news releases were captured by the Archives as pdf files; see sub-series 3 for more information about the digital transfer process.

The series is arranged into three sub-series:

- * F-61-5-1, News releases (paper) (1965-2003)
- * F-61-5-2, Media reports (1970-1990)
- * F-61-5-3, Web news releases (digital) (2002-2019)

Subseries F-61-5-1: Press releases

Date: 1964 - 2003 (date of creation)

Scope and content:

Sub-series consists of paper press releases created by Communications and Marketing and its predecessors. SFU discontinued producing the paper versions of its news releases around 2003. For the successor records in digital format, see sub-series F-61-5-3.

Files are arranged chronologically.

Subseries F-61-5-2: Media reports

Date: 1970 - 1990 (date of creation)

Scope and content:

Sub-series consists of Media Reports, semesterly compilations of press articles about SFU. The Information Office (as the unit was then known) began producing the reports in 1970. Articles were photocopied on to legal-size paper and bound into booklets. Records are arranged chronologically.

Physical description: 8 cm of textual records

Language of the material:

Access points:

- Textual record (documentary form)

Restrictions on access:

Files are open with no restrictions.

Conditions governing use:

The records are compilations of copyright-protected works created by third parties, and SFU does not own copyright. The Archives makes copies available for private study or research purposes under the fair dealing provisions of Canada's Copyright Act. Use for any other purpose may require the permission of the copyright owner, and it is the user's responsibility to contact owners and secure any required permissions.

Accruals:

It is not known exactly when the reports were discontinued. The latest number transferred to Archives is from 1990. From discussions with Communications and Marketing in April 2022, it is thought that there are additional copies still in the department's custody that will be transferred to the Archives, but it is not known if these duplicate existing copies or will extend the series.

Subseries F-61-5-3: Web news releases

Date: 2002-2019 (date of creation)

Scope and content:

Sub-series consists of news releases created and disseminated online by Communications and Marketing and its predecessors. Media and Public Relations (as the department was then known) began posting university news releases on the SFU website in 2002, and by 2003 only the web version was retained as paper copies were discontinued. This sub-series consists of pdf copies of the web news releases. For the earlier paper records, see series 5-1; for the early years there is some duplication between paper and digital versions.

For the years up to and including part of 2011, only the text of the new releases survives, without formatting, photographs or links; from 2011 on, the pdf captures formatted text, images and links, though many of the links have become obsolete with the passage of time ("dead links"). For more information about the transfer process (and its effect on the form and content of the records), see the note below on Availability of other formats.

Physical description: 10.6 GB of textual records (ca. 3500 news releases): pdf files

Language of the material:

English

French

Access points:

- Textual record (documentary form)
- Records in electronic form (born-digital) (documentary form)

Arrangement:

Releases are organized chronologically. Each year is treated as a file and each individual news release an item within it. No releases for the year 2003 survive. Most years from 2002-2010 include a small number of undated entries, appearing at the head of the item list. For these releases, all that survives is the title and year, and the pdf text is in fact blank. These were retained because the titles are themselves at least partially informative of certain events and can potentially be used to find other records relating to the events in other fonds.

Alternative form available:

The records were created by the department on the university's web content management system. By 2019, when the Archives worked with Communications and Marketing on the transfer of the records, the content was distributed over several different servers. Releases from 2002-2011 were stored offline on a legacy server, while 2011-2019 releases were on the active web server (Adobe Experience Manager). Images appearing in the releases were sometimes stored separately on SFU Vault or on the department's Flickr account.

The Archives (Alex Garnett) created scripts to output each release as a separate pdf file, with a standardized cover page indicating how it was generated. For the earlier material stored offline, the script captured only the date and text of the release, and it redacted the telephone numbers of story contacts. In a small number of cases, the actual text of the release was missing, and the script could only extract a title and year (see note on Arrangement above). For the releases still online, the script captured the look and feel of the page, and it traced links to externally stored images to embed the image in the pdf file.

Restrictions on access:

The records are open with no restrictions.

Conditions governing use:

Copyright ownership in the web news releases is mixed.

All text was authored by SFU employees and belongs to SFU. The Archives provides access to these materials under a Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial license (CC BY-NC). Many photographs included in the releases were also created by SFU. Some images, however, were originally represented via links to external sites and may have been created by third parties (e.g. the subject of the release) who retain copyright. Ownership in particular photographs must be assessed case-by-case.

For materials in which SFU does not own copyright, the Archives makes copies available for private study or research purposes under the fair dealing provisions of Canada's Copyright Act. Use for any other purpose may require the permission of the copyright owner. SFU Archives can assist researchers in attempting to identify copyright owners, but it is the user's responsibility to contact owners and secure any required permissions.

Future accruals are expected.
